

ABSTRACT

A method for measuring the activity of dual substrate enzymes and for identifying compounds that regulate such enzymes. The method uses a resin to capture and bind to one of the two substrates that interact with the dual substrate enzyme. Further, a method to for measuring the activity of dual substrate enzymes and identifying inhibitors of such enzymes using high throughput technologies.